GEDA MAXI

With two lifting speeds, easy assembly and extensive safety features, the convenient rope hoist from the GEDA MAXI is the ideal helper for efficient, yet safe transport of scaffolding elements and construction materials. The manual drive of the rope drum is not transported upwards, but simply fastened to the scaffolding at the bottom, while the lightweight swivel arm is attached at the top of the scaffold at the desired height. This even allows quick and easy relocation of the rope hoists during different construction phases. A broad selection of accessories and load handling devices turns the compact rope hoist into true all-round talent at construction sites. Whether bulky scaffolding elements, loaded wheelbarrows, buckets or other construction materials – the GEDA rope hoist MAXI has been known in the construction industry for decades and ensure easy and efficient material transport at the press of a button.
